The Pews Sold for Good Prices. There was at Meridian street M. E. Church last night a successful pew-letting and social. The seats, or pews, have a regular price, and any premiums that are given are applied to the minister's salary, the amount realized from the pew sales being appropriated for the expenses of the church, except the salary. The pews were very generally taken, and many seats which have been heretofore without regular occupants were readily sold. The highest premiums were three of $200 each. There were several of $100, and the prices ranged from that down to $5. The aggregate sale was larger than it has been for the past five years, and the congregation is pleased with the prospect of a prosperous year.
After this sale a social reunion was held in the church parlors, which gave the opportunity for the new pastor, Rev. Dr. Cleveland, to become better acquainted with his people. Refresh-ments were served, and there being a number of cakes remaining, these were sold at auction. There was a very large attendance, several from other churches being present to enjoy the social.

Preparing for Electric Lights. The Erust Electric-Light Company has a large force of men at work erecting the poles on which the city electric light wires are to be strung. The plant of the company here has been enlarged so as to furnish the necessary light for the city, and it is expected to have all the lights burning thin a month or six weeks. Washington street will be lighted up full length, Meridian from South street to Seventh, and the four avenues almost their entire length. Besides those streets, nearly all of that portion of the city between North, East, South and West streets will be lighted. The lights will burn all

THE COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED.

Its Warning to Illegal Voters, and Purpose to Keep a Close Watch on Them.

The Committee of One Hundred will not issue small circulars this year, but its warning to illegal voters appears in large posters which will be posted at every election precinct, and in other places in the city and county. Two thousand posters will be used. On them is the following: To Whom it May Concern:

Qualifications of Electors-Every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who shall have resided in the State during the six months, and in the township aixty days, and in the ward or precinct thirty days, immediately preceding such election, shall be entitled to vote in the township or precinct where he may reside.—Constitution of Indiana, Art. 2, Sec. 84.

The statutes of Indiana provide that (1) whoever tion of Indians, Art. 2, Sec. 84.

The statutes of Indians provide that (1) whoever hires, buys, or offers to hire or buy, or furnishes any money or other means to be used, or directs or permits his money or other means to be used to induce, hire or buy any person to vote or refrain from voting for any candidate for any office; or (2) whoever sells, barters, or offers to sell or bar ter his vote for any candidate for any office, either for any money or property, or thing of value, given or offered by any candidate, or any other person or persons, shall be fined not more than $1,000 nor less than $10, and disfranchised and rendered incapable of holding any office of trust or profit for any determinate period of not less than eight years.

trust or profit for any determinate period of not less than eight years.

Section 3. Any person suspected or guilty of violating either of the foregoing sections of this act, may be summoned either before the grand jury, or in the Circuit Court, and compelled to testify in relation to the same. (Acts General Assembly, 1885, page 93.)

The statutes of Indiana fix a severe penalty for the violation of the election laws, and provide that any person not having the legal qualifications of a voter at any election who offers to vote or votes at such election, or knowingly votes or offers to vote in any precinct or ward, except the one in which he resides, or wheever passes from any other State into this State, and votes, or attempts to vote, not being a resi-State, and votes, or attempts to vote, not being a resident in good faith of the precinct or ward, or whoever hires or solicits any person to come from any State into this State for the purpose of voting at any election therein, or to pass from any county to another county, or from any township into another township, or from any voting precinct or ward into any other voting precinct or ward for the purpose of voting, such person not being a legal voter; or whovoting, such person not being a legal voter; or whoever votes more than once at any election in this State shall be fined, disfranchised or imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years; or any person guilty of conspiring with others to buy or sell votes, or of forging tally-sheets, or making false affidavits to swear in voters shall be awiftly and severely punished.

Any officer of an election board who fails, neglects or refuses to make proper returns of the vote cast, and any person who advises or counsels the same, is a violator of the law. The United States and State Courts have concurrent jurisdiction of all offenses against the election laws of Indiana at the approach-

To the end that all persons guilty of the violation of the election laws referred to, and of Sections 2186 and 2187 and 2188. Revised Statutes, Indiana, relative to frauds by officers of elections, and the alterative to frauds by officers of elections, and the alteration of returns, and refusing to receive legal votes, and of section 2193, Revised Statues, relative to using violence, threats or restraints toward any voters at the election to be held on the 6th day of November, 1888, the Citizens's Committee of One Hundred offer a reward of $100, payable out of their "Special Reward Fund," for the detection and conviction of each person guilty of such violation of the election laws in Marion county, Indiana, payable when the accused is sentenced by the court.

Indianapolis, Oct. 30, 1888. The committee will hold a meeting this evening to consider, among other things, the proposition to begin an inquiry as to the number of legal voters at the poor farm, and among the employes of the jail, work-house and State institutions. Mr. Wm. Henderson said, yesterday: "If there are any illegal votes from the jail, work-house, poor-farm, or any other of these institutions, we are going to prosecute the offenders and all concerned in securing their votes or advising them. We want to give notice now in advance to avoid trouble. Inmates or employes of these institutions have no right to vote except in the precincts where they live. Con-gressmen are to be voted for, it may be re-marked, next Tuesday, and the federal court will have jurisdiction of all cases of violation of election laws." The proposition to station one of the committee at each poll will also be discussed to-night.

WHEN THE LINES WERE SHARPLY DRAWN.

An Incident of the Election in '60, When John

R. Elder Had a Narrow Escape. William John Wallace, who was sheriff of Marion county twenty-eight years ago, related yesterday how, at the election of 1860, he saved the life of one who is now a member of the Democratic committee of safety. "The election was in progress at the court-house," said he, "and there had been more or less trouble all day. I was on Washington street, near the corner of Pennsylvania. Suddenly I heard the yelling of an excited crowd, and looking up I saw John R. Elder coming towards me running at his best, and followed by fully one thousand men, who kept pouring out of the court-house and shouting, at the top of their voices, something about catch the rebel.' Some of them had muskets, some revolvers and others clubs. Elder was the worst-scared man I ever saw, and he had just cause to be frightened. Pale as death, he came rushing up to me and said: 'For God's sake, save me.' Of course, being sheriff, I had to do something. I felt positive that the men would kill him, and realized that I had to act hastily and wisely. I told him to follow me and started to run. There was at that time an old frame building where the New York store now stands. In the alley-way was a side stairway and up these I almost flew, with Elder close at my heels. Entering the building at the second story I fastened the door and we then went up to the top floor. There we thought we were safe, but I heard the door below forced open. The men theu came pouring into the building. I told Elder we would have to get out and to escape must jump out of the window. He refused to jump, and in my desperation I grabbed him and shoved him out. There was a shed below, upon which he alighted safely, and from that he jumped to the ground. Before I could follow the men had entered the room, and one of them, with his musket, knocked me down. Elder got away and went to the country, where he remained for some time after the election." "Why were these men after Elder?" he was "He had been at the polls all day peddling Democratic tickets, and several times had uttered expressions agains: Abraham Lincoln, but to there no attention was paid. Finally, he handed a strong Lincoln man a Democratic ticket. The Republican made some remark, to which Elder replied, 'I would rather vote for Jeff Davis than Abraham Lincoln.' He had hardly spoken these words when he was knocked down. He regained his feet and succeeded in getting out of the court-bouse. Had the crowd caught him it would have undoubtedly prevented John Elder from being a member of the Democratic safety committee to-day."

Mr. Wallace stated further that he voted for Cleveland in 1884, but this year he would support Harrison. "Cleveland is a humbug," and he. "He is a friend of England, and that means he is an enemy to the Irish. Ireland's condition is due to free trade. I shall vote for protection every time. I have three sons who also voted for Cleveland four years ago. They will vote for Harrison next Tuesday."

A FIERCE STREET DUEL

Desperate Men Shoot at Each Other and Both

Receive Dangerous Wounds. Last night about 8 o'clock Samuel McFee went into Wharton's saloon, at the corner of Washington and New Jersey streets, in search of Quincy Wright, who is his partner in the roofpainting business. As he left the saloon Tom Slavin said good-bye to the bar-tendler, and the door had scarcely closed when three shots were heard in quick succession. There was a rush for the outside, and as the door opened three more shots were heard. Patrolmen Laports and Shaffer, who were near, ran to the place, and found that both McFee and Slavin were badly wounded. They were taken to the stationhouse. There it was found that both men were wounded, the former having been hit by a ball that entered his body at the center of time back. It ranged downward, and could be seen underneath the surface of the left side of the abdomen. Slavin was shot twice, one ball striking him in the lower part of the neck, just between the shoulders, and another taking effect ou the left of the spine, about the middle of the back. Dr. Newcomer, who first attended the gren, said that the chances for the recovery of mither The only explanation given at first for the shooting was that the men bave long been .suemies. Slavin claimed that McFes fired the first shot, but the latter says he went into the saloon looking for Quincy Wright, and when about the middle of the sidewalk coming from the saloon, Slavin fired three shots at him. The last one took effect and struck him just as he stepped off the curb. Slavin then started into the "As he went away," said McFee, "I hauled out my revolver and fired at him three times." McFee further stated that Slavin had sent him word that he intended to kill him the first chance he got, but he replied that he was not afraid of him. Quincy Wright acted as mes-senger. Patrolman Sorters said that McFee had been at the station-house a few minutes before the shooting, arranging to give bail for a person who had been arrested for loitering. He has been making his headquarters here for two years past, but his family live in Knightstown. Both men are about the same age, forty-two years, but Slavin appears older and more vindictive than his enemy. Slavins at the station-house, refusing to lie down, paced the floor with his wound bleeding, and swearing at McFee. New and then he would go up to him, and laughing at him, make sport of his wounds.

It is learned that the cause of the difficulty between them is that about six years ago Mo-Fee was arrested on the charge of shooting the marshal at Knightstown. He appealed to Slavin to go on his bond and the latter refused. After his release he accused Slavin of influencing others from signing his bond. It was also learned that about three years ago McFee shot and killed a colored man at Carthage.

Haines, Keen and other pasters and Sunday-school superintendents. Dr. Rendthaler will then speak on the subject, "The Society's Work Aided," followed by closing music from the choir and the benediction by Dr. McLeod.

Democratic Schemes in Indiana. New York Special. The details of the scheme in Indiana are well known. It is to send an agent with money into each election district in the State to change at least four votes. As there are over 1,700 elec-tion districts in the State this scheme, if success-ful in every particular, would make a gain of 6,800 for the Democrate and a loss of 6,800 to the Republicans, a total of over 13,000 votes. That would carry the State against all Repub-lican estimates. The reports from Indiana, however, do not promise much for the success of this Democratic method, which is the one that will be employed during this week in New Jersey, West Virginia, Connecticut and in the centers of population in this State. Much of the money is pretty certain to be handled by Republicans and its purpose will be defeated.

SCHLEICHER

That is, the result of it. But it is going out fast. Our losses were promptly adjusted, so that we goods down to nearly anybody's price. In consequence, the rush last week was tremendous; but it didn't exhaust the goods. We are going on till we reach the last yard.

Great preparations this week. If you need nothing now, it vill pay you big to buy for the future. Come see the unheard of bargains.

ASTMAN,

LARGEST HOUSE IN THE SATE

Our great success in this Department in the past season prompted to greater ventures this season. Our purchases have been double that of any previous season, and, by the united purchases of our two large houses we have been enabled to secure large concessions in prices, giving to our customers lower prices than our competitors, resulting in an increase of more than 50 per cent. in sales for the past month. See our immense stock and get prices.
